

Sowing the Seeds Network
and the Centre for Economic History at the University of Reading

FUNDED BY THE ECONOMIC HISTORY SOCIETY

Medieval Urban Community and Public Space

An Early Career One-Day Workshop

- ❖ Thursday 29th March 2012
Whiteknights Campus, University of Reading
- ❖ Registration Free with Travel Bursaries available
subject to certain criteria

For registration contact Will Liddle (Queen's University Belfast)

w.liddle@qub.ac.uk

For all other enquiries contact Catherine Casson (Universities of Birmingham and Oxford)

c.m.casson@bham.ac.uk

University of
Reading

Sowing the Seeds Network and the Centre for Economic History at the University of Reading A Workshop on Medieval Urban Community and Public Space

Thursday 29 March 2012

Henley Business School, Whiteknights Campus, University of Reading

Registration: Free. Furthermore, travel bursaries are available subject to certain criteria

Duration: 10am-5pm (followed by an optional dinner, which will not be covered as part of the conference budget)

Programme includes:

- Round table 'Urban Community and Public Space' (chaired by Dr James Davis, Queen's University Belfast)
- Key-note talk by Dr Richard Goddard (University of Nottingham)
- Papers by post-graduate and early career scholars, including:
Justin Colson, Occupational Clustering in Late Medieval London: Fundamental Changes?
John Lee, Water Supplies in Medieval English Towns
Judith Mills, Step-change or Evolution: Local Government in Nottingham 1400-1600
Arie Van Stenseel, Unravelling the Social Fabric of Urban Communities: Families and Households in England, Italy and the Low Countries, c. 1350-1550
Will Liddle, Merchant Gentrification in Fifteenth-Century King's Lynn, Norfolk

For enquiries about registration, please contact Will Liddle (Queen's University Belfast) at w.liddle@qub.ac.uk

For other information please contact Catherine Casson (Universities of Birmingham and Oxford) at c.m.casson@bham.ac.uk.

We are grateful for financial support from the Economic History Society

