

Changing Places

case study

Helping everyone enjoy Leicester's theatres and arts venues

Leicester City Council has worked with the Changing Places organisation and the city's leading theatres and arts venues to provide Changing Places toilet facilities. Now Leicester leads the way nationally with Changing Places facilities in four major city centre venues, making them fully accessible and inclusive for audiences, educational groups, arts practitioners and performers.

De Montfort Hall

Leicester's renowned live entertainment venue

Changing Places facility opened 2015

'The installation of the new facility represents an important step in our broader aim here at De Montfort Hall to ensure that the needs of all our customers are being met and to make the venue as accessible as possible.'

Phoenix

Independent cinema and art centre

Changing Places facility opened 2014

'We want as many people as possible to be able to enjoy our cinema, art and café bar and Changing Places is such a valuable space to help us do this. We hope that people who maybe haven't been able to come here before consider visiting us because of this facility.'

Curve

Leicester's major theatre

Changing Places facility opened 2013

'The facility has opened the theatre up to people that could not visit and see shows before. It is a great feeling knowing we can accommodate all types of disability groups by offering this facility.'

CURVE

'The changing table and space has made a huge difference to our lives, being able to come out into town.'

CURVE CUSTOMER

Attenborough Arts Centre

Has a remit to make the arts accessible to people with disabilities

Changing Places facility opened 2013

'The Changing Places facility has attracted regular bookings from local community arts groups who would not have otherwise been able to stay for workshops or sessions. More SEND schools and NHS groups also use the centre. The installation of this facility was also a fundamental asset in attaining a three year BBC Children in Need grant.'

ATTENBOROUGH ARTS CENTRE

'You have given us back our dignity.'
