An evening with...
Current science research for teachers and students

A unique opportunity to meet distinguished scientists answering questions about their research.

The sessions will take the form of an illustrated interview with most of the questions coming from the audience. The topics range from space science to nanotechnology. Questions can range from historical and technical issues to applications and career opportunities. Primarily designed for teachers to find out more about current science, the sessions will also be of interest to sixth form students thinking of a career in science.

Events are advertised individually on our website.

Attendance is free and open to all who are interested.
