Monographs:

Edited volumes, editions, and pamphlets:

S. A. King and C. Payne (eds.), The Dress of the Poor, 1700-1900 (Special edition of the journal of Textile History, 2002).

A. Gestrich, S. A. King and L. Raphael (eds.) Being Poor in Modern Europe: Historical Perspectives 1800-1940 (Bern, 2006).

Textbooks, learning packages and popular:

Chapters:

S. A. King and A. Stringer, “‘I have once more taken the Leberty to say as you well know’”: The development of rhetoric in the letters of the English, Welsh and Scottish sick and poor 1780s-1830s’, in A. Gestrich, E. Hurren and S. A. King (eds.), Poverty and Sickness in Modern Europe: Narratives of the Sick Poor, 1780-1938 (London, 2012), 69-92.

Articles:

J. Kent and S. A. King, ‘Changing patterns of poor relief in some English rural parishes circa 1650-1750’, Rural History, 16 (2003), 119-56.

S. A. King, ‘“It is impossible for our vestry to judge his case into perfection from here”: Managing the distance dimensions of poor relief, 1800-40’, Rural History, 16 (2005), 161-89.

S. A. King, “‘I fear you will think me too presumtuous in my demands but necessity has no law”: Clothing in English pauper letters 1800-1834’, International Review of Social History, 54 (2009), 207-36.

