Planning Perspectives is published 4 times a year. It is affiliated to the International Planning History Society, an interdisciplinary organisation that promotes the study of planning history across the globe. IPHS offers a forum for scholars working in a wide range of disciplines interested in an historical approach to cities, places and people and for discussions between academics and practitioners of urban planning history.

The website of the society can be found at: http://www.planninghistory.org/

Webpage for Planning Perspectives: http://www.tandf.co.uk/journals/titles/02665433.asp/

Table of contents
Volume 25, Number 2, April, 2010

ARTICLES
Stephen V Ward
What did the Germans ever do for us? A century of British learning about and imagining modern town planning

Yi-Wen Wang and Tim Heath
Towards garden city wonderlands: new town planning in 1950s Taiwan

Ludivine Damay and Florence Delmotte
New town planning instruments: participation or governance? The case of Brussels through the ‘Botanique structure plan’

Jong-Deok Choi
The palace, the city and the past: controversies surrounding the rebuilding of the Gyeongbok Palace in Seoul, 1990-2010

IPHS SECTION
Hugh Bartling
The Burnham Scions’ suburban legacy: the 1917 Plan of Evanston

David L.A. Gordon
The ‘other’ author of the 1908 ‘Plan of Chicago’: Edward H.Bennett – urban designer, planner and architect

Karen Schaffer
‘The beautiful and useful laws of God’: Burnham’s Swedenborgianism and the ‘Plan of Chicago’

14 BOOK REVIEWS

Book Notes