Leadership and Supervising Skills

What are Leadership and Supervising Skills?
- Take responsibility
- Define the purpose and objectives of a work group
- Build confidence and buy-in from others
- Directing, delegating and co-ordinating the activities of others
- Resolving others’ concerns in relation to a plan
- Recognising the efforts of others
- Creating a shared vision
- Applying situational leadership – understanding leadership styles
- Leading change
- Motivating others to achieve high performance

How can I develop my Leadership and Supervising skills?
- Take part in a leadership development programme
- Leading on group projects
- Joining a sports club and leading a team
- Join a society and taking up a committee position, such as treasurer or president

How might I have developed this skill during my studies at University of Leicester?
- Seminar team working rotating leadership
- Leading group projects
- Simulated research / company project where different individuals lead different departments.

Example:
How might you demonstrate Leadership and Supervising Skills in your CV? You can use the list above where appropriate but remember to evidence how you gained or developed the skills. For example:

- Developed strong leadership skills by directing and delegating team members during a group project to ensure that everyone had assigned roles based on their strengths, so that the project was completed effectively and efficiently.