

Notes on Contributors

JEREMY DIAPER Jeremy Diaper received his BA (Hons), MPhil and PhD from the University of Birmingham. His research has been funded by the AHRC and he has recently published articles on T. S. Eliot and the history of the organic husbandry movement in Agricultural History, Agricultural History Review and the Journal of the T. S. Eliot Society (UK). His first monograph on T. S. Eliot and Organicism (Clemson University Press/Liverpool University Press) is scheduled for publication in 2018 and he is guest-editing a special edition of Modernist Cultures on 'Environmental Modernism'. He has also reviewed widely for Modernist Cultures, The Journal of Wyndham Lewis Studies, Notes and Queries, Victoriographies and the Virginia Woolf Bulletin.

SUSANNAH V. EVANS is an AHRC Northern Bridge doctoral student at Durham University, researching T. S. Eliot's prolonged engagement with the writing of the avant-garde French poet Jules Laforgue. She has previously published peer-reviewed work on David Jones in Postgraduate English: A Journal and Forum for Postgraduates in English, and she runs the T. S. Eliot reading group and The Poetry Podcast series in Durham.

TOMMI KAKKO is a lecturer at the University of Tampere, Finland, where he teaches English literature. His research interests include satire, seventeenth- and eighteenth-century criticism and hallucinations in early modern and modern literature.

YUN PEI obtained her PhD in English Literature and Culture 1700-1900 at University of Sussex, UK in late 2015. Since then, she has been teaching at Beijing Foreign Studies University in China. Her research interests include Wordsworth, the prophetic, and China-Britain cultural relations in the long eighteenth century.

RICHARD VYTNIORGU is a doctoral researcher with Midlands3Cities (AHRC), based at De Montfort University and University of Leicester. His research focuses on the relationship between transactional literary experiences and the wisdom quest in the work of Louise Rosenblatt and H.D.